A WAGON

Instead of a Big Sleigh

For "The Tribune's" St. Nicholas.

Send in the Names and the Addresses of the Poor

So That None of the Children May Be Missed on the Rounds.

Now send in the names of deserving poor children, as well as gifts for them. On THE TRIBUNE'S lists are about 500, but there are others. We don't want Santa Claus to miss a single one. If we only got the names we are sure he will not; for the good people of Oakland are providing enough to give each child a present. Perhaps we will have two presents for each one.

So send in the names of the poor. Give the full address, and mention whether the location is in East Oakland, West Oakland, North Oakland or South Oakland. This is for the convenience of Santa Claus in making up his lists. This year he will not ride in a sleigh, because sleighing is not very good in Oakland just now. Then, too, Dancer and Prancer and Donner and Blitzen have the grip. So a wagon and horses will take the place of the sleigh and reindeer.

But the wagon will be a smart one and the four horses will be brave, high steppers. The children to whom Santa Claus will appear in this modern vehicle will have no reason to be greatly disillusioned by the visit.

This wagon will leave THE TRIBUNE office at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the distribution of presents will begin. This early start is made because it will take more than one day in which to make the rounds. So all names and addresses of needy people should be in by Monday evening at 8 o'clock, so they may be classified.

Presents must be in by 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

All candy merchants who have promised candy, are requested to send it in on Monday or Tuesday.

And don't forgat to send in the names of the families where there are children to whom Christmas will not bring presents unless they come from THE TRIBUNE "stocking."

Here are more of the gifts generously donated by warm-hearted people:

A young girl brought in six books, among them "Chatterbox," "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Little Folks."

This is from a young lady who gave freely of everything but her name:

To the Editor of The Tribune—SIR: I wish you and all the children a "Merry, merry Christmas." A FRIEND

Accompanying the note came a doll's dresser and folding bed, a doll's trunk and doll with complete outfit, a fur coat and cap, a game, a dozen books, a doll and its wardrobe, and a box containing household outfit for a doll.

From little Mary Fish of 1012 Fourteenth street came a rocking horse and a boy's coat and vest.

Mrs. M. L. Smith sent two doll's high chairs, a Noah's ark, a set of doll's dishes, a doll's crib, a game of authors, a half dozen picture books and numerous small articles—just the things for the children.

Mrs. Isaac Requa of "Highlands," Piedmont, contributed a fine tool chest, a wheelbarrow, two cribs for dolls and eighteen Christmas horns.

Harrison & Boyce, the popular grocers of Twelfth street, between Broadway and Franklin street, sent in two 10-pound bags of cornmeal, six one-half pound packages of tea and six pound packages of coffee.

Mrs. George Earl, wife of the popular Councilman, dressed two beautiful dolls and sent them to "the stocking" with her best wishes. One of the large bisque dolls is dressed as a baby with a long white dress handsomely trimmed and embroidered, a long cape of pink and a white cap trimmed with lace. The other is attired in Nile green flowered silk, all trimmed with laces and ribbons, and with a white straw hat trimmed to match the dress. This lady carries a little handbag made of silk and containing a piece of money. No handsomer or more tastefully dressed dolls have been received since the stocking was first hung.

Mrs. J. M. Richardson of 504 East Eleventh street, gave a pair of knitted slippers, a glass slipper, a book of fables, a "Child's Book of Nature," and a volume of "Bible Readings" for the "Home children."

A card bearing the words "For THE TRIBUNE'S Christmas stocking from Captain William Reed's grandchildren, 1209 Market street," accompanied a fish pond, a snake game, a dump cart, a shell box, a game called "Noodles Astray," a game of cats and mice, a set of tenpins and a billiard game.

Miss Brigham contributed a beautiful blond doll, all dressed in blue.

W. Sagehorn, the pioneer hay, grain and feed man of Sixth street, is the agent for the Stockton Milling Company. He contributed thirty ten-pound sacks of that company's excellent flour. These will go to thirty poor families.

"These are for poor children," is what little Warren Osgood said when he handed in a tin horn, a drum and a box of rolling "A B C" blocks.

Lowell and Martha Redding gave eleven books for children, numerous small toys and a complete set of the magazines, Our Little Ones and The Nursery.

Fred Butterfield brought seven books, a set of dishes, a top, two balls, a set of blocks, a jumping-jack and a girl's crocheted cap.

Miss May Rouse of 488 Twenty-fifth street left twenty-four fancy bags of pop corn "for the little boys at the kindergarten." That popcorn will make many a little fellow's mouth water and then set his little teeth to grinding.

Kirkland & Trowbridge, the popular druggists at the corner of Tenth street and Broadway, went deep into their big stock of holiday goods and sent to "the stocking" a big box full of beautiful things. In the box were ten dainty baskets with bottles of cologne, a pretty wall pocket, two fancy sachet bags, six handsome slippers with Eastman's cologne in them, twenty-four Japanesque jugs of cologne, four bottles of Ricksecker's perfumes, a box of Seeley's perfumes, another box of Baldwin's perfumes, and six fancy cologne bottles. Altogether this gift is one of the most generous yet received.

F. H. Bruning, the confectioner, at the corner of Seventh and Washington streets, sent in thirty pounds of toothsome candy, which is badly wanted to complete "the stocking's" store of good things.

R. T. Kennedy & Co., the big importers of dry goods at 457 to 461 Thirteenth street, sent the following note, accompanied by two calico dress patterns, four handsome Christmas cards, a box of handkerchiefs, three pairs of stockings, a pair of child's drawers, an autograph album, two purses and two books:

OAKLAND, December 17, 1891.

To The Oakland Tribune: We forward a few articles for your deserving "Christmas Tree" and trust our small offering may assist to make some poor children happy. Truly yours,
R. T. KENNEDY & CO.

John Hanly, the well-known dry goods dealer of the corner of Eleventh and Washington streets, came to the front with a fine contribution, which is explained in this note:

OAKLAND, December 18th.

To the Editor of The Tribune—SIR: Please accept this small donation to help fill your Christmas stocking for the little folks: Twenty-three pairs of stockings, one-half dozen handkerchiefs and four ties. Yours truly,
JOHN HANLY.

This note explains the generous contribution of Frank W. Searing, the popular dealer in produce and poultry at 470 Twelfth street, between Washington street and Broadway.

OAKLAND, December 18th.

To the Editor of The Tribune—SIR: Inclosed you will find two orders as my donation to the children in want. One is for a fine Xmas turkey; the other for a large ham. May those who receive them relish them for their Xmas dinner. Yours, FRANK W. SEARING.

This came with a donation from a little 7-year-old:

Dear Tribune: I am going to send a train of cars and some marbles and some books for the poor children. Yours truly,
MERRILL KINSEY.

Oakland, December 16, 1891.

Willie Parrish brought a game of tiddledywinks, two harmonicas, two wooden horses and a fine game of ten pins. He wants them to make a lot of little boys happy.

The following gifts came from a combination of well doers including Lita and Oscar Schlesinger, Edna Orr, Emily and Patty Chickering, Stanley Mitchell, Rollie Barnard, Clinton Parrish and Marshall and Francis Randol: A handsome Christmas card, a horse and wagon on rollers, a tea set, a humming top, a toy cannon, seven books for boys, a Noah's ark, a combination safe and a dainty "Baby Bunting" all dressed in fur.

Mrs. Macy, the wife of Deputy Sheriff D. F. Macy, sent a handsome baby doll which she had tastefully dressed in a long, yellow gown.

A little lad who has made two trips to THE TRIBUNE office with his little wagon filled with toys made still another trip and brought a series of the Youths' Companion story paper, three big books for children, two trains of iron cars and a set of picture cards.

A MEXICAN FAMINE.

Not Nearly So Severe as the Reports Indicate.

Scarcity in Several of the States Owing to a Short Crop, but no Need for Outside Help.

CITY OF MEXICO, December 18. — Reports from reliable sources in every State of the republic are to the effect that the rumors of great distress caused by famine and of rioting by the impoverished people are untrue. In Chihuahua, Durango, Zacatras, Chiapas and Potosi the crops failed, and this is causing some suffering, but measures for the relief of the needy are already taken. There has been no actual starvation reported in any of these States.

The Federal and State Governments and private individuals are importing sufficient provisions to supply all needs. Exaggerated reports have been sent to Europe regarding the suffering in the different States. No State has asked for outside help.

An English syndicate is buying up coffee ands in Tamalipas.

The memorial also urges that surveys be made for the best water route twenty feet deep from the great lakes to the Atlantic. The memorial was adopted.

A DIFFERENCE.

Mr. Thompson and Mr. Comstock Do Not Exactly Agree.

Their Views on the Strike of the Railway Telegraphers.

Can the Grand Officers Order a General Tie-up of Trains?

It is evident from investigations made by a TRIBUNE reporter that all is not as bright for the striking telegraphers as is pictured at the headquarters of their order. While it has been given out by Deputy Grand Chief Comstock that grand officers of all the railway orders, save those of the switchmen's association, are speeding to Oakland for the purpose of declaring a general strike against the Southern Pacific Company, and that some time next week all the trains on the Pacific division will be at a standstill, it seems that no such thing is likely to occur, and that the bubble so carefully blown by the deposed operators is likely at the last moment to be broken, and the fondest hopes of "Oakland Division of the Order of Railway Telegraphers" shattered.

Mr. Comstock, the Deputy Grand Chief of the Order, has publicly declared that he had no hopes of success without the assistance of the other orders of the federation, and it is this assistance he declares is coming in the person of the grand officers of the other railway orders. So far for that side of the question.

J. H. Thompson, the Assistant Division Superintendent of the Western Divison, whose office is at the Oakland pier, is a member of the Order of Railway Conductors as well, and probably no railroad official has given as much attention to railway orders and to the laws of the federation as Mr. Thompson. He is thoroughly versed in all the actions taken by the different orders for many years back, and to a TRIBUNE reporter he said:

"It is strange the papers have not made an investigation into this matter before. It would take very little to show that this so-called strike of the telegraphers is utter nonsense. It is not a strike, according to the laws of the Federation of Railway Employes, and therefore cannot be recognized by the federation, notwithstanding what Mr. Comstock says: Another point that I raise is that the federation will not interest itself in this trouble, because it has not been properly conducted. Furthermore, it has been carried to an extreme before the federation was accomplished. The laws of the Federation are very clear on the method of procedure in grievances, and none of these principles were carried out.

"This so-called strike is not a strike in any sense, because it does not appear what authority Mr. Comstock had for ordering his men out. If the telegraphers had a grievance they should have appointed a Grievance Committee to wait upon the railroad officials and state it. This was not done, but Mr. Comstock personally made demands which the company would not concede, and then at his order the men left their posts. He may have the authority to order strikes or he may not, but I know in other orders the matter has to be decided by a general Grievance Committee.

"Mr. Comstock has given out that as soon as the grand officers of the other orders get here we may expect a war. Well, let's see about this. It will be sixty days at the very least before a general strike can be ordered that will tie up the company; but that is arguing that they will do such a thing. I am of the opinion that no general strike will ever take place, for the reason that none of the orders out here have any grievance. You can rest assured that the local orders of engineers or conductors or firemen or brakemen will not feel like fighting the railroad to help an order that has got itself into a mess and then relies on them to help it out.

"According to the federation laws when one order has a grievance it must be submitted to a general committee composed of members of all the other orders, and if they think it well founded they send a committee to the railroad officials. This committee has power to recommend a strike if it meets with no success. Is that plain to you?

"In other words a branch of the federation cannot institute a strike, and failing to succeed cannot expect the federation to take up its fight before it has endorsed the grievance.

"Again, if our grand officers come out here we shall ask them what they want. We haven't sent for them, and we don't need them, and if they are coming, as the newspapers say, there is nothing for them here. They cannot interfere with anything when we do not send for them.

"From these reasons you will see that the Order of Railway Telegraphers is not sure of anything, and they are not likely to have the support they expect."

Treasurer Marr of the Order of Railway Conductors indorsed what Mr. Thompson said and added that he did not think the federation would do anything for the telegraphers in this vicinity. "Their strike on the Atlantic and Pacific was different" said he "For that had a reason and this has none."

COMSTOCK DENIES.

Deputy Grand Chief Comstock was told in substance what Mr. Thompson had said, and he said in reply:

"The formality of presenting a grievance to the company was gone through with when Mr. Thurston was here in October last, and I got my authority from the Grand Chief, who has authority to order a strike at any time.

"The Southern Pacific Company gave us its ultimatum last October, and it was not absolutely necessary to see Mr. Towne as I did on Monday last. It was not necessary to have a General Grievance Committee because our trouble has been before the Order of Railway Employes since last September, and they were perfectly cognizant of it. All the others orders have grievances before the railroad officials at the present time, and I presume that is why they are sending their officers to this coast with ours.

"As I understand it this is an entirely new federation, and as yet nobody knows just what laws they have adopted for the government of such things. It is evident from the communications I have received from the grand chief that he has complied with all the requirements of the federation, and that the federation indorsed our action at St. Louis last Monday.

Mr. Thompson tells you what grand officers can and cannot do. The fact is grand officers can go where they think it is for the interest of their order to go. Of course if there is a grievance and they are sent for they are compelled to go.

"The trouble is not with the telegraphers alone, and as far as there being a strike is concerned, the Southern Pacific will see whether it is a strike or not before we get through with it. It is perfect nonsense to think I would order a strike without consulting my chief."

Three men at Mendota have gone out. These are the only additional strikers on Wilder's division.

COMSTOCK IS CONFIDENT.

The few men who have gone out in this part of the country have come into Oakland and made Division Chief Comstock's office their headquarters, so he has quite a crowded house there all the time. They were quite jubilant today when a dispatch was received this morning from Grand Chief Ramsay, stating that he was coming with five strong federations, and then their spirits were raised still higher by a telegram which came from Tucson, Ariz., a few minutes later. It said:

"Big meeting, startling results. Stand firm, success is sure."

It referred to the mass meeting held last night of operators at Tucson, at which the other federated trainmen were present.

Unless Grand Chief Ramsay stops off at Los Angeles he will be here on Saturday night. It is probable, though, that he will pass a few hours in the angel city, for a strong union is being formed there, forty-two names being obtained in about two hours. Division Chief Comstock is thoroughly confident of success, and says that there will be a grand climax the early part of next week, when the Federated Trainmen have charge of the proceedings.

ANOTHER ROAD FOLLOWS SUIT.

OMAHA, December 18.—Orders were sent out yesterday to the telegraph operators working for the Fremont, Elkhorn and Missouri Valley Road, notifying the men that they must leave the Order of Railway Telegraphers or leave the service of the company. This morning the superintendent of the road received replies from several men refusing to obey the order and trouble is expected.

Chief Thurston of the Railway Telegraphers has been notified, and the matter will be brought before the local lodge tonight. It is said that similar orders have been sent to all the men employed on the entire Chicago and Northwestern system.

MINNEAPOLIS, December 18.—Local insurance agents have received instructions from their home offices that, dating from today, rates on risks on wholesale mercantile establishments will be advanced from 20 to 40 per cent.

This advance is to be general all over the country and is the result of the alarming prevalency this year of disastrous fires in jobbing establishments. The instructions declare that the losses from these fires have more than absorbed all the premiums paid during the year on all classes of risks.

A GREAT TIME.

C. A. Klinekner Turns Himself Loose in a Public House.

A Wild Night at the Golden Gate Del Monte Hotel.

The Guests All Leave and Now the Landlady Sues for Damages.

C. A. Klinkner, the man of monkey fame, is in a peck of trouble. According to the story of Amos Durant and his wife Mary, the founder of Golden Gate, alias Klinkerville, has been making himself obnoxious about the hotel in that town. Because of his conduct Mr. Klinkner will have to answer to the court in a damage suit which was commenced against him this afternoon.

Klinkner built an hotel at Golden Gate a few years ago, which he named the Klinkerville Del Monte Hotel. This hotel he leased to Amos and Mary Durant for a period of two years, stipulating that they should conduct an hotel and boarding house with a saloon and billiard parlor attached.

The lessees took possession of the property and resumed business. For a time they met with remarkable success, and during some months managed to make a clear profit of $200 a month. For several reasons Klinkner became dissatified with his tenants. He publicly asserted that they did not have a lease of the hotel, and said that he was going to oust them.

One evening Mr. Klinkner took it into his head to clean out the hotel. He entered the place in a riotous manner striking terror into the hearts of the inmates as he boldly shattered a large swinging lamp.

Mrs. Durant thought her life was in danger and so departed from the reception room in haste. Klinkner had only commenced his fun. He saw her distress and chased her through the hotel. The landlady, however, managed to elude the angry proprietor, and escaped his wrath. Mr. Klinkner's language on that occasion was not as choice as it should be in the presence of ladies. All this is Mrs. Durant's story.

On another occasion the red rubber stamp man went to the hotel and ordered Mrs. Durant to pack up her traps and get out. The guests were surprised at such conduct, and one by one they left the hotel, until finally the business became unprofitable.

The Durants also assert that they have another grievance against Mr. Klinkner. They claimed that they leased from him the baseball grounds adjoining the hotel, and while they were in possession of the property the owner of monkeys by force of arms and threats, ousted them from possession.

It is also asserted that Mr. Klinkner in many ways violated the terms of the lease, and positively refused to make the necessary repairs at the hotel.

Such is the story related in the complaint filed by Mrs. Durant wherein she asks the court to reward her $5000 damages. Klinkner will be heard from later on.

SHE DIDN'T GO.

A Spoiled Elopement at the South Berkeley Home.

SOUTH BERKELEY, December 18.—Quite an exciting scene was enacted at the residence of Judge Campbell and vicinity yesterday. One of the inmates of the Home for Friendless Girls had evidently made plans to depart suddenly with some unknown cavalier. Mrs. Campbell telephoned for a constable and the young man's expedition came to an inglorious ending by his arrest by Constable McCarty. The young lady herself was going to go anyway, but Miss Porter succeeded in persuading her to come back. Considerable more force was used than "moral suasion." However, the young lady returned.

Mrs. Lambert is reported quite ill with bronchitis.

Mrs. William Taynton is rapidly recovering from her attack of the grip.

The electric light poles have been scattered along Ashby avenue. South Berkeley will be lighted by electricity in the near future.

INDICTED.

The Horizon Darkens Around Field.

Forgery in the Second Degree Charged.

The History of a Strange Transaction in Which He Is Concerned.

NEW YORK, December 18.—The grand jury today returned an indictment against Edward M. Field of the defunct firm of Field, Lindley, Weichers & Co., charging him with forgery in the second degree.

The indictment is predicated on the statements made by Bankers Knauth, Machod and Kuhne.

As the investigation by District Attorney Nicoll into the failure of Fields, Lindley, Weichers & Co. progresses, the horizon darkens for Edward M. Field. So far the discovered crooked transactions of the defunct firm foot up nearly four hundred thousand dollars.

This involves many well-known creditors of the partnership headed by Field. Today's indictment against Field for forgery is based on a bill of lading transaction.

THE HISTORY OF ONE TRANSACTION.

The following statement is made by Knauth, Machod & Kuhne relative to their connection with the Field-Lindley failure: "It seems that Reuter of Hamburg, an uncle of Weicher, one of the partners of the defunct firm, inherited $108,000 from the Weicher estate. This money was left in Weicher's hands, and the latter used it for speculation. He reported to his uncle that inside of sixty days the money had realized a profit of $8000, aside from interest. The uncle, however, pressed Weichers for the money. The latter, on behalf of the firm, made out one day a sight draft for 498,000 marks on a firm in Mannheim, Germany, where Field & Lindley had no balance.

"They counted upon covering this draft by a cable transfer, and to obtain the latter, there being no funds, forgery was resorted to. On November 25th, Field & Lindley arranged to make a cable transfer of 498,000 marks, equal to $118,000, to the firm in Mannheim, at the same time buying their thirty days' sight bill of 325,000 marks on the same firm in Mannheim, such bill being accompanied by shipping documents for 74,000 bushels of wheat per steamship Triumph.

"Some days previously they sold us a similar bill of 190,000 marks on the same firm accompanied by shipping accounts for 43,000 bushels of wheat per steamship Holcomb. All these shipping documents have since turned out to be forgeries. There were no such steamships in port at the time and no such wheat. Fortunately we discovered the forgery before the draft was presented, and were able to stop payment."

It was for the above transaction that Field was today indicted.

WILL PLAY BALL.

The Terms of Settlement of The New League.

An Ironclad Ten-Years' Agreement—No Club to be Dropped but by Unanimous Vote.

INDIANAPOLIS, December 18.—The Consolidated Baseball League, now known as the National League, and the American Association adjourned at 4 o'clock this morning, received the final reports of the committees, terminated their affairs and dissolved.

At the meeting that lasted all night, Nick Young was elected president, secretary and treasurer of the new League and Zach Phelps was chosen solicitor.

The head quarters will remain as in the old League, at Washington. A Board of Directors was drawn by lot and was composed of members equally from the Eastern and Western circuits.

The members are: Brush, Cincinnati; Von Der Ahe, St. Louis; Hart, Chicago; Soden, Boston; Von der Horst, Baltimore, and Scanlon, Washington.

President Young has yet to name the schedule and playing rules. The committee of the new league will organize on an ironclad ten years basis, and no club can be dropped without the unanimous consent of the clubs, including the one to be dropped, and a three-fourths vote will be necessary to change the constitution. The terms of settlement with the clubs dropped, are said to have been satisfactory to all parties. The exact figures are not to be given out for sometime.

It is understood that Boston received $37,500, Philadelphia $43,000, Columbus $16,000, Chicago $13,000 and Milwaukee $7,000.

OUR GAME.

An Immense Crowd at the Grounds.

The Little Ones Much Delighted.

The Batteries for Portland and San Jose.

The Game Opens With Some Lively Play on Both Sides.

BASEBALL GROUNDS, EMERYVILLE, December 18.—The great TRIBUNE championship game between the San Jose and Portland clubs at the Emeryville grounds this afternoon was an immense success.

Long before the hour set for the game hundreds of people gathered at the grounds. School children were there by the thousands.

When the game was called every seat in the grounds was taken. Those who came late had to be contented with standing room. Many people came to the grounds in carriages.

When game was called by the umpire a great shout went up from the large audience. The shouts of the happy little ones could be heard for blocks. There were two umpires in attendance, McDermott and Sheridan.

The batteries were Wadsworth and Graff for Portland and Lookabaugh and Spies for San Jose. The Portlands went to the bat first but failed to score. The San Jose boys then came in for their inning but made no more success than their opponents.

In the second inning the Portlands secured a hit, but the runner failed to get past first before the side was retired. Charley Dooley stepped up to the bat for the San Joses in the second inning and was retired on a short hit to third, Reitz went out on a fly to short, and Spies went out on fly to second.

In the third inning Patton, for Portland, made a pretty hit to left field and was safe at first. Lytle struck out and Work went to his base on balls. Glenalden hit to second and forced Work out, being safe himself. Mots singled to centerfield and Patton scored. Abbey made a safe hit advancing the runners a base. Parrott sent a high fly to centerfield and was out, thus retiring the side.

For San Jose Stallings was the first man up and struck out. Sharp flew out to first. Lookabaugh made a short hit to second and was retired at first.

Fourth inning. Graff for the Portlands was given his base on balls, Wadsworth hit a short fly to Ebright at third which was neatly caught. Patton was given his base on called balls. Lytle struck out. Work singled to right field. Glenalden singled to left field and Work scored. Moetz hit past third base, and Glenalden scored. The inning netted three runs for the Portlands.

San Jose was retired without a run.

Fifth inning—Portlands, 6, San Jose, 0.

At noon today THE TRIBUNE had tickets for the game distributed in all the schools. The children were overjoyed to receive them and manifested their joy in many kindly expressions for the paper which procured a championship game for Oakland and secured for them free tickets to the grounds.

NOTHING IN IT.

Superintendent Wilder Denies That He Is to Resign.

Young Mr. Huntington Is Not to Take His Place or to Oust Mr. Fillmore.

A wild rumor was published in a San Francisco evening paper last night to the effect that C. P. Huntington intended to send his nephew, H. E. Huntington, to this coast to take the position now held by J. A. Fillmore, as general superintendent, and that for six months he would relieve A. D. Wilder at the Oakland pier. In an interview a few weeks ago Mr. Wilder said: "The rumor is false, and was published by a discharged railroad employe who is now a newspaper man of little worth."

At the Oakland pier this afternoon it was emphatically denied by all the officials and Mr. Wilder denied it strenuously. The story has not a grain of truth and Mr. Wilder talked at lenghth about it to THE TRIBUNE'S railroad reporter on his arrival from the East.

The most apparent proof of its falsity is that neither Mr. Wilder nor Mr. Fillmore have received official notice that there was to be a change, and Mr. Huntington is not the man to make such important changes without notice.

It would take over a month for a new man to learn the rudiments of Mr. Wilder's division, let alone the details.

WITH THE PUGILISTS.

Kemmick Will Arrive Tonight—Needham's Match.

Charles Kemmick, the pugilist, will arrive here tonight. He comes from St. Paul under engagement to fight McCann at the California Club next month, and will train under Dannie Needham. He fights at 145 pounds and although only 19 years old, has already distinguished himself in the ring.

Dannie Needham's $500 forfeit for his fight with Tommy Ryan of Chicago has not yet been covered, but it undoubtedly will be for Ryan has telegraphed to the California Club to make the match for him. The contest will take place in March and will be for the 140-pound championship, $5000 a side and a purse of about $3000 to be offered by the California Club. The men are both winners, Needham having won his last fight with Mahan and Ryan having recently defeated Houston.

Needham keeps in pretty good trim owing to his duties as boxing instructor at the Reliance Club. He will move his shell to Lake Merritt shortly and take a pull there every day, so as harden his forearms and hands. He turns the scale now at 150 pounds, but could soon knock off the superfluous weight.

STOLE ONIONS.

Burglars Who Helped Themselves to a Load of Vegetables.

And Were Arrested When They Came Back to Get Another Wagon Load of the Stuff.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 18.—A daring attempt at burglary was committed last night in the produce store of Riley & Enos. Three young men drove up and leaving one in charge of the wagon, the other two made their way over the roof and dropped into the store through the skylight. They succeeded in getting out a number of sacks of onions, beans and potatoes and got away with a good-sized wagon load. Elated by their success the men returned and filled the wagons up again, when Sergeant Helms and Officer Lake arrested them.

They gave the names of George Oman, Harry Lester and Adolph Kruger.

IMPORTED TALENT.

The Burglary at Wetherbee's Place Is All Out.

A detective had to be imported to discover who it was that committed the big robbery at Henry Wetherbee's country home, corner of East Fourteenth street and Fruit Vale avenue. It will be remembered that about $1200 worth of property was carried away and all sorts of theories were exploited as to how the robbery was brought about. The local detectives worked on the affair in vain, but the San Francisco man has dissovered that the burglary was done by a servant, the gardener, who worked in the place. He had been employed for a long time. The arrest was made last night in San Francisco and a lot of the stolen property was recovered.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 18.—Early this month Henry Wetherbee, a wealthy immdealer, decided to bring his family to this side of the bay and left the family residence in Fruit Vale in charge of a servant. On the 6th inst. the Fruit Vale residence was entered by burglars, who carried away silverware, jewelery and clothing to the value of $2000. This morning Gus Schaefer, a discharged coachman was arrested for the crime.

Mrs. Liebes Gets $100 a Week.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 18.—Judge Finn made an order today allowing Mrs. Hannah Liebes $600 for past expenses and $100 a week until the further order of the court in the matter of the Liebes divorce suit.

SAN LEANDRO.

SAL LEANDRO, December 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Wallace nee Ury, visited Mrs. Wallace's parents on Sunday.

The first annual ball of the San Leandro Fire Department given in St. Joseph's Hall on Saturday evening was a social and financial success. A delegation was present from Alameda and the large hall was filled. About sixty couples took supper at the Estudillo House. The music was by the Calhoun Brothers' orchestra.

Under the direction of the Street Committee of the Board of Trustees and the Town Marshal the streets are being put in fine shape. A scraper is being used for the first time on them and the experiment gives much satisfaction. E. B. Stone has taken a contract to scrape all the streets required at half a cent per linear foot. The scraper is six feet in width and is run three times along each side of the street. It cleans the gutter completely and puts the street in good shape. The machine is hauled by eight of Mr. Stone's great horses. Three men are required, two to drive and one to manage the scraper.

The Holy Ghost Association will give a grand ball in their hall on Alvarado street on Thursday evening, December 31st. Good music has been engaged for the occasion, and all arrangements made to make it a first class affair.

County Treasurer Huff and Mrs. Huff attended the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Perham at Haywards last Saturday, and presented a set of gold and silver spoons to the pleasant and hale old couple who were married in the year that the grandfather of our present president was inaugurated President of the United States, and when Mr. Huff was a boy going to school to Mrs. Perham before her marriage.

A theatrical entertainment is going on in St. Joseph's Hall, under the auspices of the "Boy's Band," and will continue this and Saturday evenings. There are several professionals in the troupe, Richard Foote, Miss Annie Plunkett and others from San Francisco. They are playing some of Shakespeare's best plays and the best of after pieces.

C. H. Gray has been confirmed by the Senate as Postmaster at San Leandro. This is now a salaried office.

NOTARY PUBLIC.

FRIDAY.....DECEMBER 18, 1891.

MURAT HALSTEAD says that the political indications point very straight for the nomination of Flower by the Democrats next year, and in fact it looks that way now. Flower has a big barrel, is a political nonentity, and therefore has few enemies and he is acceptable to Tammany, or would be if Hill could be got out of the way. As for Cleveland, it is evident that his party is afraid of him.

BUSINESS and speculative circles do not look for much in the way of legislation from the present Congress, and this view is thus explained by Henry Clews:

The President's annual message has had a good effect upon Wall street at large. It is regarded as not only an able, moderate and statesmanly document, but also as revealing a healthy condition of the business of the country, and as favoring measures promising stability and safety, and above all as affording a guarantee against any further approach towards danger in our silver policy. The new political complexion of Congress is likely to produce an exciting session in the lower House. It is to be expected that the main object of both parties will be to make record for the election of 1892; but little positive legislation is likely to be enacted, as the minority will be held in check by the majority, and the majority will be restrained by the Senate or the President. There is, therefore, nothing in Congressional prospects that is likely to seriously disturb Wall street during the coming months.

This condition pleases business men who are always afraid of the disturbance arising from radical legislation.

A Contrast.

The new Speaker is not much of a "tariff reformer" if we may judge from some of his utterances reported in the Chicago Herald, the leading Democratic authority of that city. The Herald says that Mr. Crisp made a speech at the Commercial Congress held in Kansas City last April in which he urged a tariff which would "encourage manufactures," "foster commerce," and, more definitely, "protect American labor against ruinous and unjust competition with cheap foreign labor." It seems as if Mr. Crisp might make a pretty fair Republican on this question, and in order that we may contrast his position with that of Mills we quote part of a speech delivered at Minneapolis a little more than a year ago by the latter, in which he said:

"Free trade will kill trusts as dead as a door nail. And yet the American people insist on sending men to Congress that vote for protection."

"The Almighty made us dependent upon each other. We must exchange the things we do not want for those things we must have. And to do this we must have absolute free trade."

"Levy a tax on incomes and the wealthy men of the country and we will see prosperity."

"I believe in free trade, free labor, free speech and a free press."

"We would be exporting our articles of production to all parts of the world if Grover Cleveland was President of the United States."

Mr. Mills believes in straight free trade and an income, tax, while Mr. Crisp is a protectionist, not differing very widely from McKinley. It is evident that the Democrats have abandoned the free trade and tariff reform programme and will, perhaps, make the issue on free silver coinage. The issues of the next campaign will be made by the action of Congress at this session, and that action will be almost wholly shaped by the Speaker.

A Malignant Spirit.

The malignant misrepresentations of the attitude and bearing of the United States and people and officials toward Chile appearing in the London Times during the past two months forms the subject of an interesting letter by George W. Smalley, the London correspondent of the New York Tribune. Mr. Smalley takes an editorial article, appearing immediately after the Valparaiso riot, while Mr. Blaine was seeking redress, and thus analyses it:

"But," says our Jupiter in his thundering way, "there is not the slightest reason to call in question the entire correctness of the attitude assumed by Chile." Not the slightest, you observe. Chile is entirely correct, while the American tone is "dictating and browbeating." The American Government is "indecently hasty." The American policy is a "braggart policy." Mr. Blaine's tactics are "electioneering tactics"; his agents "assiduously disseminate inflammatory statements." He was trying to get up a "boom"; had he succeeded, he would have been "delighted to go all lengths against Chile." How does Jove know that Mr. Blaine would have been delighted? He has a kind of supernatural divining power, as a deity might be expected to have. Not only can he penetrate the secrets of Mr. Blaine's bosom, he can discover what those secrets would be in an imaginary condition of things; what his emotions would be if something had happened which has not happened. But it now appears "he is not going to win on the cheat," and "it only remains for him to climb down as softly and as gently as he can." As to the United States Administration in general, it has maintained toward Chile "a deliberately hostile and provocative attitude." Think what consequents, when alleged of a great power dealing with a lesser power. Neutrality was openly set aside by the American fleet in Chilean waters. The American Admiral acted as intelligence department to the Dictator." Finally, "the American people are certainly concerned to discover and punish those who have employed their ships and their influence in ways which, if not absolutely corrupt"—which this writer plainly believes them to be—"are at least extremely irregular and mischievous."

Later when Admiral Brown indignantly denied that he had acted as a spy at Quinteros bay the Times printed the denial with a sneer instead of an apology, and Mr. Smalley goes on to say:

Instead of an apology, we are treated to a lecture. "The Americans have taken in somewhat ill part the advice offered to them by those who would gladly be their good friends and admirers." It is the first time I ever heard that to call a man a spy was to give him advice, or to prove your friendship or admiration for him. "The American people," continues an adviser and friend and admirer, "while they have long ceased to be British colonists, are intensely colonial in their sensitiveness toward the least breath of criticism from the country of their origin." If the expressions I have quoted—and I might have quoted many more—be the "least breath of criticism," what would the greater criticism be? Such words as these would go through the hide of a rhinoceros. It may be "colonial" to have a sense of self-respect, and it may also be imperial to put "a little candid monition" in a form so offensive as that which it assumes in the columns of our censor. In which case we may be content to be colonial.

The first feeling which arises at reading all this is one of indignation, or at least irritation, but after all, this is scarcely worth while. It is worth while to speculate, however, as to the motive of this ridiculous attitude on the part of England's leading newspaper, for it is ridiculous to assume a position so easily shown to be untenable. It may simply be another manifestation of an unusually cross form of English stupidity actuated by simple ingenuous malice toward America, or it may be that there is a desire to irritate the United States into going to war with a South American republic with a view to embitter the commercial relations of the two countries for a long period. We confess that we are unable to decide which of these theories is true, and in fact there is plenty of evidence in support of either.

A MALICIOUS STORY.

A Mean Attempt to Disgrace an Ex-Ticket Collector.

The report recently circulated that A. G. Sinclair has been engaged in the disposing of unpunched tickets is totally false. Mr. Sinclair has been a ticket collector in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company for nineteen years and no complaint was made against him in all that time. The origin of the malicious statement has been traced to a saloon-keeper named Talbot, who ended his career here by skipping to the country.

Mr. Sinclair has forwarded the following letter for publication:

To the Editor of The Tribune—SIR: The report recently published by a morning paper connecting me with a scheme for disposing of unpunched ferry tickets has caused me much annoyance. Permit me state the accusation is false, and made by some person or persons to vent their spite for some fancied slight and injure my character by making the above report and cause its circulation, which I deny as false and court investigation. By publishing the above you will confer a great favor.

A. G. SINCLAIR.

Mr. Sinclair has many thousands of stanch friends in Oakland, all of whom are willing to testify to his honesty and integrity.

BETRAYED A TRUST.

A Collector Exposes His Employer's Funds.

W. W. Stevens was employed by the Dental Protective Association of this city a short time ago as collector. A number of small bills were entrusted to his care, and though he turned in several sums of money his employers discovered that he was holding out several of his collections. He finally disappeared altogether, but they located him in San Francisco, and arrested him on a charge of misdemeanor embezzlement. Before the case was called in the Police Court this morning the affair was compromised and the defendant's bail was reduced to $5 and forfeited.

San Francisco Discounted.

Just received from the East two carloads of elegant antique and XVI Century oak furniture consisting of chamber suits, parlor desks, music cabinets, chiffoniers, sideboards, extension tables, dining chairs, fancy rockers, etc., which will be sold at less than San Francisco prices. Call and see. C. W. Kinsey, 1114-1118 Broadway.

Woods Knocked Out.

The fight between Joe Choynski and Billy Woods occurred last night at the Pacific Club, for a purse of $4000. In the thirty-fourth round Woods was knocked out. Choynski proved himself to be a much better fighter than his opponent. Woods, though a much heavier man, resorted to runaway tactics.

LYMAN-FLINT.

A Pleasant Wedding of Popular Society People.

Description of the Solemn Ceremony by a Well-Known Lady Who Was Present.

One of the pleasantest weddings which have occurred in Oakland for many a day took place on Wednesday evening, the 16th, at the handsome residence of E. P. Flint, when Miss Helen Flint and Richard Lyman were "joined together in holy matrimony." The bride is a great favorite in Oakland and belongs to a prominent family, long resident and highly respected in California, while the groom is equally well connected in the East. It was an old-fashioned home wedding. The invitations were confined to relatives and a very few near friends, but even with this restriction the spacious rooms were well filled. The ceremony was performed by the groom's cousin, Rev. Charles J. Mason, assistant rector of Grace Church, San Francisco, recently called thither from Boston. The beautiful marriage service of the Episcopal Church never seemed more dignified and noble than when the clergyman, in clear tones, enunciated its testimony respecting the duties and the "rights" of the marriage relation.

A bay window had been transformed into a bower, and here sat the waiting clergyman, around him expectant guests, while in the distance a strain of music suddenly modulated itself into Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." Enter the groom and his best man, George Flint, taking place on the left. A little waiting. Then enter the two bride-maids, Miss Hutchinson and Miss Bayley, in exquisite pink costumes; Kate Greenaway! more Kate Greenaway! when enter the maid of honor, Miss Alice Flint; most Kate Greenaway! Then, on her father's arm, came in the bride, all shining and shimmering like a white cloud, and was transferred to the care of the groom. In an instant the white surpliced clergyman was on his feet before the prie dieu and the service was in progress. The father gave the bride away, the best man transferred the ring to the groom, he to the bride, she to the clergyman, he to the groom again, and he finally to the bride again "for good and all," and the ceremony was over.

A telegram of congratulation from the groom's mother in the East was handed to Mr. and Mrs. Lyman immediately upon the benediction, besides several from other distant friends. After kisses and good wishes came the wedding supper. The bride's table was surrounded by smaller tables, all filled with guests, and admirably served. With the good cheer came toasts and with the toasts came speeches. First, the groom was called up and acquitted himself most gracefully, particularly when he said that he had little idea on coming to California two years ago that one of California's fairest daughters would accept his name at this Christmas of 1891. Then Mr. Mason spoke, and spoke eloquently. Then Mr. Pennoyer did not speak, though urged. Then the bride proposed the health of the groom's mother, her mother-in-law. Then the groom proposed the health of his mother-in-law. Then the toasts were drunk in innocent beverages. Then the bride's cake was cut by the bride. Then there was silence while every one searched his or her piece for the ring. Then it was announced amid applause that the ring had fallen to to a certain young lady, making it sure that she too will be a bride within a year. Then another young lady found on her plate the piece of silver hidden in the bride's cake, whereby it was proven that she is to marry a millionaire. And then everybody fell to dancing a Virginia reel. The bride and groom, as first couple, led off, danced down the middle, cut it to the hall and up the front stairs. "Oh!" exclaimed everybody, but the dance went on. Then all gathered in the hall for the leave-taking, the younger guests holding a reserve of rice as ammunition. "There they come!" And down hurried a couple, buried in wraps. Rice flew right and left, until the store was exhausted. Then it became evident that the bride and groom were yet to come, and that this was only a sort of reconnoissance made for a self-sacrificing couple to draw the fire of the enemy, when lo, there stood the bride! From her vantage ground above she threw a bouquet, her last token. It fell to a young lady, who in consequence will also be married before this time next year. The bride disappeared and carriages were in order.

The presents were many and beautiful. It is enough to say that they filled one of the large upper rooms, that is, such which could be carried there. Some of the most valuable were not transferable, as, for instance, a building lot, given by the bride's father; a house, built and given by the groom; fittings and furnishings, by the bride's mother. Few begin life under happier auspices, and the good wishes which followed the young couple were many, and were sincere.

WURTS WAS OUT.

The Well-Known Real Estate Man Thrown From the Buggy.

M. L. Wurts, the real estate man, had a lively time of it with a runaway last night. While driving on Tenth street, near Castro with a friend, the horse scared and ran, swerving so suddenly that Wurts was thrown with great force to the ground. The reins trailed as a result of his sudden departure, but his friend crawled over the dashboard and caught them before the horse had got very far. Mr. Wurts escaped with a shaking up and a few bruises.

WHERE IS DOUGHERTY?

W. W. Foote Thinks He Has Been Spirited Away.

Where is Detective Dougherty of San Francisco? The police would very much like to have the question answered, for they have hunted high and low for him so that he can be brought to trial for the alleged embezzlement of $50 from Mrs. Hayes. No trace of him can be found, although the trail has been followed as far as San Jose. His attorney, W. W. Foote, says that Dougherty must have been spirited away by people with whom he is interested in other legal matters.

NO MORE DELAY.

Belated Ferry Passengers Need Not Freeze at the Pier.

"The Tribune" Kick Has Brought About a Desirable Change.

What Superintendent Wilder Says About Those Awful Deadheads.

For a great many years the passengers traveling between San Francisco and Oakland have been badly annoyed by the long delays experienced at the Oakland Pier. Sometimes the local trains have not pulled out for ten or fifteen minutes after schedule time, and on most every trip after 7 P. M. the delay has been more or less prolonged.

Now, the Oakland Pier is not the best place in the world to wait when one is not on business, and it makes the average ferry passenger kick long and loud to be delayed at that uncomfortable point on an uncomfortable night, for he can see no reason for for the imagined indignity that is heaped upon him by the "grasping monopoly." So when the aforesaid ferry passenger imagines he has a "kick" he howls loud that others may hear him and that his voice may reach the sacred precincts of the castle at Fourth and Townsend streets.

THE TRIBUNE made an investigation several weeks ago and found that the complaint of the passengers was well founded. The delay occurred regularly every night, but on Saturday and Sunday nights it was more prolonged. Sometimes twenty minutes would flit by, but the local train moved not until the twenty-first had been marked upon the watches of the homesick passengers.

THE TRIBUNE laid the matter before the officials at Fourth and Townsend streets, and now its efforts have borne good fruit, for tomorrow night an experiment is to be tried which will likely prove a success, and the delay at the Oakland Pier will be a thing of the past.

Yesterday Division Superintendent A. D. Wilder said to a reporter: "Yes, we have taken cognizance of the delay down here on the late trips, and it is strange you never realized the real cause of the delay. The papers have been hacking away at myself and the railroad company, when, if they would only look around a little, they would recognize the true cause of the evil. It is the deadhead passengers. They alone are responsible for all this trouble, and we have taken steps to remedy it. If you have ever noticed in the night time, particularly on the half-past 7 and half-past 8 o'clock trains to Broadway and the half-past 9 and half-past 10 o'clock trains to the pier the cars are jammed with as many deadheads as they can hold. Thousands of free passengers board and leave the trains at the stations, and they cause a delay of many minutes in the trains' arrival at the Oakland pier. Just now Christmas shopping is going on, and every last one of them need time to get their packages and bundles into the train with them."

"But we will stop it, we will stop it," said the official with a look that boded no good for the presumptuous deadheads.

"If it were not for these deadheads," continued Mr. Wilder, the local trains would not be delayed at the stations, and consequently they would reach the pier on time. If they did that there would be plenty of time to do all the necessary switching and pull out with the ferry passengers on time. When the down train arrives fifteen minutes late it makes the east-bound train just that much behind in getting started. We have arranged a scheme whereby we can get our evening trains to the pier on time."

With this Mr. Wilder indicated that he had ended the interview.

"How will you do it?" was asked.

"Well, we will keep the deadheads from delaying us."

"Do you intend to skip any stations?"

"Oh, no; not that. But we will get here on time just the same."

"How will you do it?"

"By running the trains from Fruit Vale a little earlier, so as to give more time for the trip. We will try the experiment Saturday and Sunday nights, and if it is a success we shall continue it. We must bring our trains in on time, and that seems the only way to do it."

So on Saturday night the evening trains will seem a little erratic in their movements to the deadhead who gets out because of relying on card time and the correctness of his watch, and if he don't want to be left he will bring his dinner and wait for the train.

But this will also worry the pay passenger. So look out for the experiment on Saturday and Sunday nights. If the experiment is a success the time card will be changed, and there will be no further trouble.

MELLIE'S BABIES.

A Splendid Entertainment Given for Their Benefit.

The Theater Was Crowded to the Doors and the Audience Enjoyed a Fine Performance.

The people who so kindly arranged the benefit for Mellie's Babies (the Terrell orphans) at the Oakland Theater last night, must have been pleased when they saw a crowded house. The people responded heartily to the call to assist the little orphans and at the same time enjoy a pleasant evening.

Everybody connected with the theater and the entertainment contributed what they could, thereby keeping down expenses in order that the orphans might receive a good sum. Almost enough, if not quite enough was secured to complete the beautiful home for the homeless little children now building at Fruit Vale on the lot so generously given by E. C. Sessions.

The entertainment was opened by the minstrels. This was a show worth seeing. Arranged in semi-circle were members of the Grand Army in uniform in white face. The end men, Charley Hart, D. V. Murphy, Harry Farr, and Horace Leech, were blackened. H. T. Smith acted as general and interlocutor. The orchestra played "Viva Little Orphans" and the fun commenced.

General Smith received a telegram from Washington, demanding that he secure reinforcements and proceed at once to Fruit Vale and protect the home of Mellie's Babies. Mr. Smith then favored the audience with a song entitled "Everyday Life." The President of the Board of Education is quite a "Song Smith."

Charley Hart and D. V. Murphy commenced their capers and made everybody laugh. Some of their jokes were new and original. A comical song, "He Never Came Back," by Charley Hart received rounds of applause. D. V. Murphy sang "Pretty Girl, Rather," and A. S. Rhoner sang "A Son of the Desert Am I" in fine style.

The orchestra played, and the arrival of the Black Diamonds, Alex Rosborough and Fay Butler, was announced. John J. Morse sang "When Mother Puts Her Little Ones to Bed" in a pleasing way.

Fay Butler announced the arrival of America's men-of-war. Then miniatures of the warships sailed over the stage. The two big buds on the stage blossomed, and two pretty little children came forth. Little Harvey Seligman as "Lord Fauntleroy," reclined on a rug at the feet of General Smith.

Then Alex Rosborough made the audience laugh with his funny song, "I Heven't for a Long Time Now." J. M. Robinson sang "Vulcan's Song" in fine voice. Fay Butler in an amusing way sang a song entitled "The Telephone."

General Smith then announced the arrival of reinforcements, consisting of soldiers from Companies A and F under command of Lieutenant-General Frank R. O'Brien, with First Bugler Horace Leach and Second Bugler Harry Farr. The soldiers showed their skill in fancy military maneuvers. This ended the first part of programme.

The Orinda Quartet, consisting of C. L. Philbrick, D. M. Tittle, H. P. Brown and G. C. Stanley, sang a song entitled, "Welcome Tonight," and were warmly applauded.

Professor S. C. Baldwin, Professor William Durant and Mrs. Jennie V. Baldwin played the "Passing Regiment" in fine style.

The popular contralto, Mrs. Blake-Alverson, sang "Daddy, Good Night," and for an encore sang "Home, Sweet Home."

John Cruft Jr. rendered a trombone solo with such expression that he received a hearty encore.

Miss Jennie Fowden, who is gifted with a sweet soprano voice, sang "Ave Maria."

Harry Quinn gave an interesting exhibition of club swinging.

That fine quartet consisting of D. P. Hughes, George Carleton, Ben Clark and Harry Lawrence next favored the audience with a selection.

A violin solo by Professor J. Manning was well received.

The entertainment closed with a series of groupings by members of the Acme Athletic Club. The boys gave a fine exhibition. Those who participated were: F. W. Sharpe, E. S. Dowdle, H. Maxwell, C. Andrews, J. Kitchen Jr., J. S. Fox.

The entertainment was a great success in every respect.

WEST OAKLAND.

Entertainment by the Pupils of the Cole School.

A Lecture by Rev. George L. McNutt and an Entertainment at St. Andrew's.

WEST OAKLAND, December 18.—The pupils of the "B" Ninth grade of the Cole school ended their grammar school days yesterday afternoon in a delightful manner. They wanted to show their friends what they could do, so they gave a very entertaining exhibition. On all the blackboards were drawings and mottoes, while many flowers and greens added brilliance to the scene.

One drawing, which was particularly noticeable for its merit, was a large, illustrated piece, bearing the words "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year Greetings." Roland Oliver was the artist. The rooms were filled to overflowing with the friends of the pupils, who heartily enjoyed the exercises. The programme rendered was as follows:

Song, "The Heaving Billow".....Class
Introductory remarks.....
.....Roland Oliver, Class President
Piano solo, "Music Among the Pines".....
.....Sara Rosenburg
Recitation, "Dream of Eugene Aram".....
.....James G. Reed
Song, "Whippoorwill's Call".....Curtis
Violin solo, "Meditation".....Avery Morgan
Recitation, "Christmas Eve".....Marion Hall
Piano duet, "The Angel of Night".....
.....Olive McCall, Lois Stonsifer
Class prophecy.....Vina E. Howland
Calisthenics, "Wand Exercises".....
.....Four of the Class
Recitation, "Chop Grinder".....Susie McGaw
Comedy, "Intelligence Office".....
Will Allen, Kitty Terrell, Rudolph Coffee, Minnie Reed, Albert Long, Lizzie .....Woodworth, James Reed
Violin solo, "Reverie".....Richard Wise
Recitation, "A Model Sermon".....Olive McCall
Song, "Now the Evening Hour".....Class

The exercises were excellent throughout, all the participants doing finely. The class prophecy "wand exercises" and the farce comedy captivated the audience, and peals of applause echoed through the building.

Some of the guests present were: Mrs. Charles Snook, Miss Hattie Wilder, Miss Mabel Palmer, Mrs. Goug, Miss Goug, George Campbell, Mrs. Stephens, Mrs. Howland, Miss Howland, Henry Weil, Professor E. Ames, Mrs. A. D. Wilder, Alvin Wilder, Misses Lochie, Mrs. R. B. Porter, Mrs. William Letts Oliver, F. W. Sawyer, Mrs. R. S. O'Conner, Dan Hawley, Lulu Hill, John Westphal, Cairy Stephens and many others.

At the Chase-street Congregational Church last night Rev. George L. McNutt delivered a most interesting lecture on "Ben Hur," for the benefit of the Sunday school. Over 300 were present, and a goodly sum was realized. The lecture was illustrated by 100 stereopticon views, including scenes of Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Rome and Antioch, and concluding with views from celebrated paintings of the closing days of Christ's life. Mr. McNutt knows how to tell a story, and he delighted all present.

Thomas Mitchell is ill with pneumonia.

The Young Ladies' Guild of the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church held an enjoyable entertainment in the parlors of the church last night. A programme of rare merit was presented, and dainty, light refreshments were served at the conclusion.

All the West Oakland schools closed today for the holiday vacations.

WOOSTER WORSTED.

The Judge Says That he Must Pay His Wife Alimony.

George C. Wooster made an appeal to Judge Greene this morning, to be relieved from paying his wife, Mrs. H. J. Wooster, alimony. Mrs. Wooster is suing him for a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty. He stated that his wife left him without cause, and under these circumstances he did not believe he ought to be required to support her. Judge Greene, however, stated that it was his duty to support his children, and therefore ordered him to pay $80 a month alimony pending the trial of the divorce suit.

Wooster had a damage suit in San Francisco, which was decided yesterday. He sued to recover $10,000 damages on account of personal injuries he received, and secured a judgment for $500. After paying his expenses he will receive about $100.

IMPORTED TALENT.

The Burglary at Wetherbee's Place Is All Out.

A detective had to be imported to discover who it was that committed the big robbery at Henry Wetherbee's country home, corner of East Fourteenth street and Fruit Vale avenue. It will be remembered that about $1200 worth of property was carried away and all sorts of theories were exploited as to how the robbery was brought about. The local detectives worked on the affair in vain, but the San Francisco man has discovered that the burglary was done by a servant, the gardener, who worked in the place. He had been employed for a long time. The arrest was made last night in San Francisco and a lot of the stolen property was recovered.

Accused of Crime.

District Attorney Reed has filed informations against J. Donnelly and George Jackson for burglary; Pat Hurley for robbery; James Coleman for robbery and James Mitchell and David Reeves for burglary.

WATCHING THE TIDE.

Observations of the City's Nautical Department.

The sloop-yacht Pilgrim, with Vice-Admiral Morgan's pennant flying at the yard-arm, came into dock this morning, after her cruise for observations for the outlet to the Main Creek sewer. She sailed in charge of Commodore Reed with sealed orders, and after he got well out from land he opened them and discovered what his work was to be. Floats were run out to see which way the tides carried, and it was discovered that nothing goes out on at least two tides. This fact, taken in connection with the observations already made, shows that the outlet must be beyond the end of the north seawall at the narrow-gauge pier. The Pilgrim will now endeavor to locate the best point at which the discharge can be made.

THE TURKEY THIEF.

The Police Say They Have Him, but He Says They Haven't.

The filcher of the turkeys from the Oakland Produce Exchange has been arrested by the police. At least they aver he is the man. He is Frank Kosta of Seventh and Wood streets, and they say that he is the man who loaded the fifteen turkeys into his cart and drove away with them, getting Officer Nick Williams to him on his way. He, however, protests his innocence and says that he knows nothing at all about the affair. He is the son of Kosta, the restaurant man.

ALL ABOUT A CAMERA,

Why Mr. Seymour Was Arrested and Sent to San Francisco.

J. W. Seymour of 1216 Seventh street got a camera from a store in San Francisco the other day and it is asserted that he has since declined either to pay for it or return it. In spite of the pressure brought to bear on him he still declined to disgorge, so a warrant was sworn out for him yesterday in San Francisco on a charge of embezzlement. It was served by Police Captain Wilson at 9 o'clock this morning and Seymour was sent across the bay at noon.

Christmas Numbers.

The Christmas number of the Wave is very handsome and of high literary merit. Ambrose Bierce, Arthur McEwen and other well-known writers contribute interesting stories, and there are plenty of illustrations, among them being on exquisite half-tone picture of Mt. Shasta, as seen from the Sisson side.

The Christmas number of the Pacific Churchman wears a prosperous holiday look. It is full of good stuff that makes for righteousness. Rev. C. L. Miel may be congratulated on getting out the only readable religious paper on the coast.

THE LAST CLASS

To Be Graduated at Christmas From the Alameda High School.

Interesting and Instructive Exercises at the Park Opera House Last Evening.

The stage of Park Opera House presented a pretty scene last evening. The graduating exercises of the Christmas class of '91, Alameda High school, took place, and a charming sight was revealed to the audience when the curtain rolled up. Seated in a semi circle were the graduates, the young ladies attractively attired in gowns of white, while the young men wore the customary black. In the rear were the School Directors and the faculty of the school. Potted plants were there in profusion, adding more beauty to the pleasing sight.

A large audience assembled to hear the exercises, and as the curtain rolled up, concert music by the orchestra filled the big opera house. The invocation by Rev. A. T. Perkins was followed by the presentation of flowers, and dozens of beautiful floral pieces were handed to the stage and arranged about the footlights.

Miss Marion A. Arnold then stepped forward and delivered the salutatory. "Friends, we are the last class graduating at Christmas time. The Christmas class of '91, greet you and give you hearty welcome to the exercises which close High school career. Our education thus far has been obtained step by step; first, the foundation was laid, piece at a time; then day by day, something was added. Year by year we built it upwards, until now we have a substantial though modest structure, to which we will continue to add, until the end of our lives."

The young lady then read her essay, entitled: "Rome Was Not Built in a Day." She said:

"On looking through the pages of history of every epoch of the world since it began to exist as a shapeless mass of nebulæ hurled into space from the hand of the Creator, not only in matters of mighty importance to our very existence, but also in affairs of every-day life, the truth of this time-worn adage is manifest. Nothing has ever been accomplished either by nature in her great workshop, or by man in his lesser field of action, unless a period of time, great in proportion to the work to be completed, passed by during which the worker, whether neat or cold, the sea or ice, man or the lower animals, toiled through a succession of steps. Nothing that endures was made in a day.

"According to theory established in science, our earth was in ages gone by a mass of gas, resembling a luminous cloud, floating through space. After a time, according to nature's laws, it began to revolve and to cool, and after many processes the once gaseous body became the earth now familiar to us." The present physical features of the earth were then traced in eloquent language, and the beauties of the Grand canyon of Colorado were referred to.

"Did great cities and edifices and monuments that have endured for centuries, serving as a connecting link between the present time and times lost in antiquity, spring up like mushrooms in a night? History answers, no. It is the slow and untiring workers who have made the world what it is. If we remember that Rome was not built in a day it may strengthen us in our failures and encourage us on our way."

Miss Rachel Best next read an essay on "Poetry," of which the following is a synopsis: "Of all ancient literature, poetry appears to have been the first branch, which shows clearly that it existed and does exist in all things, and that the ancients had the power of discerning and proving such to be the case. Poetry is something more than a mere rhythmical arrangement of words expressing an ordinary idea. It rightly heads the list of arts; nature is full of it, and all humanity possesses its share, whether it is capable of manifesting it or not. Our souls are constantly stretching forward beyond the visible for something higher and more refining. The foundation of this more beautiful and emotional art lies in the unseen. Another erroneous idea about the subject is that poetry peoples the mind with fancies, and gives one a wrong idea of life and society. On the contrary, it rather strives to place everything in the truest as well as the most beautiful light; to improve, as well as to gratify the human mind, and to 'awaken in the soul the consciousness of its affinity with what is true and noble.'"

After a medley by the orchestra, the class prophecy cast in a poetic mold, was read by Miss Florence Cox, and created much amusement.

Fred A. Bordwell followed with an essay on "Humbugs," and ably handled his subject. His essay commenced as follows: "That species of life known as the humbug, now exists, has existed and will continue to exist during all ages, and in every country and clime. Although it was not entered on Noah's register as an occupant of the ark during those memorable forty days, it survived the flood, thanks to its remarkable tenacity of life.

"The humbug differs from its fellow creatures in the multiplicity of its forms, a fact which makes it most difficult to ascribe to it any particular genus or class. Like certain honorable men during our civil war, it might be said to be 'on the fence' in this respect."

The religious humbug was then described, and was referred to as the most despicable of all. The business humbug is a very common person during this rushing nineteenth century. The social and the intellectual humbugs were described.

Mr. Bordwell then delivered the valedictory: "This is an age of progress and invention," he said, "but it is only by drawing lessons from the past, avoiding its errors, and profiting by its example that the present and future may be made of benefit. Let us then, while looking forward to the future, not forget the past, nor while rising to higher grades in life disdain the humble means by which we hope to reach our final goal."

The teachers of the school were pleasantly referred to, mention was made of each member of the class, and the farewell was said in fitting language.

An instructive address was delivered to the graduates by Professor T. F. Bacon of the State University, and was equally enjoyed by the audience.

City School Superintendent Sullivan then presented the Board of Education, and the president of the board, C. A. Brown, conferred the diplomas.

The exercises then closed, the orchestra playing the Naiad March.

This will be the last class that will graduate from the Alameda High school at Christmas time.

ALAMEDA.

One Way to Bring Down the Objectionable Awnings.

The Method, However, Has Certain Drawbacks in the Way of Trouble and Till-Tapping.

ALAMEDA, December 18.—A horse attached to a buggy and tied to a post of the awning in front of F. Dettmar's building on Park street created some excitement yesterday afternoon by becoming frightened and pulling the awning post down. The horse was driven by a young man employed as a drummer by Brigham, Hoppe & Co. of San Francisco, and when Dettmar saw what damage had been done, he demanded money from the young man, who gave him $10, but subsequently hunted up a carpenter and asked Dettmar for his $10, which was returned to him. Then the young man tendered Dettmar $2, saying that was all it was worth to repair the broken post. Dettmar refused to accept it and wanted the young man arrested, but the police interfered and made Dettmar leave the drummer alone as he had committed no crime, and Dettmar's redress lay in a civil action. Dettmar became angered at the police for their interference and criticised the force severely.

During the excitement J. Kaskel, in front of whose store the commotion took place, was an interested listener and when he entered his store he found the same boy coming out. The boy said he wanted to buy a suit of clothes. As Kaskel turned to go behind the counter the boy skipped and Kaskel then discovered that his till had been robbed. It had about $70 in it. He at once notified the police, but the boy was not in sight.

Joseph Roos died of la grippe yesterday at his residence on Railroad avenue near Park street, after a week's illness. Deceased was 61 years of age and a native of Germany. He leaves a widow, a daughter, Mrs. William Brommage, and one son. He was a clerk in Sanborn, Vail & Co.'s establishment in San Francisco.

The electric light on the Alameda side of the tidal canal bridge is now in use, but its bright rays will not be of any benefit until the bridge is thrown open for travel.

The storekeepers on Park street are disgusted at the action of the property-owners in declaring in favor of re-macadamizing the roadway. "Alameda will never be what she deserves to be until Park street is bituminized," said a prominent merchant yesterday. "If another coat of macadam is put on the roadway it will stay there for ten years to come. In the meantime other cities will be attracting people by their clean streets and Alameda will be out in the cold. Persons do not like to come to Park street to trade because of the filthy condition of the street and the merchants are heavy losers by the short-sightedness of the property-owners in not bituminizing the street." The merchant had a disgusted look on his face as he gazed upon the stream of mud which now covers Alameda's chief business thoroughfare.

Some of the German residents are taking steps to organize a society to be called "Verein Eintracht," the social features of which will be prominent.

The vegetable store of Thomas Duffy, on Park street, next to the Park Hotel, was attached yesterday.

HE WANTS WORK.

Who Will Find a Job for a Man With a Big Family?

The following letter from James Bell, the sick man who was relieved from THE TRIBUNE'S "Christmas stocking" and cared for by the Knights of Pythias, has the genuine ring to it:

OAKLAND, December 16, 1891.

To the Editor of The Tribune -SIR: Please allow me a small space in your valuable paper, as I wish to thank you and the charitable public of Oakland who have been so kind to me during my five weeks' sickness and distress. Thank God, I am getting well again. I shall be able to work during the coming week. Being a stranger in Oakland, I wish you would help me to get work. My business, painting and paper hanging, being very dull at this time of year, I shall be glad to do anything to support my family. There are eight of us and it takes a good deal to keep us, pay rent and keep out of debt.

The Knights of Pythias of Oakland and the Pythian Sisters have been very good, and like wise sent for our clothing from Santa Fe, N. M., which was left behind for debt. The lodge of which I am a member at Santa Fe, allows me $5 per week during sickness. We have no furniture to send for. I shall have to get some here. When I am at work so long as we can get food and fuel we can make shift. Of course it comes very hard for us, for I have always been in a good position until now. This is the first time I have been sick for fifteen years, and we were never in distress before. We have had eleven children and I have always been able to support them, being a smart, sober and industrious man, not afraid of work.

Please see what you can do for me in getting work, and help one who will try to help himself if the opportunity is given him. Thanking you and all kind friends again, I am

Yours very respectfully,
JAMES BELL,
1558 Seventh street.

The Boulevard.

With what pleasant anticipation do the people of Oakland watch the advancing work on the lake. The imagination is not taxed to any great extent in picturing a panorama of handsome equipages and a happy populace as they promenade to and fro, enjoying the glorious sunshine. The little sheet of blue water, dotted with sail and dancing over the surface in company with the gulls and water fowl. Ever and anon the People's Express wagons can be seen wending their way through the crowds en route to their destination—for their business takes them far and near. Apropos of the Express Company, they are still at the corner of Tenth and Broadway, and are doing the business of the city. Checking trunks from residences to any part of the country was a great catch, and secured them the bulk of the business at the outset.

Young Wooster's Strange Disappearance—Joking McCarty Through Wanamaker Telegrams.

BERKELEY, December 18.—A special meeting of the Philosophical Union of the University of California will be held this evening in room 1 of the north hall of the university, beginning at 7:30 o'clock sharp. Miss Marietta Kies, Ph.D., instructor in philosophy at Mills College, will present the topic, Kant's Anatomy of Reason.

The masquerade ball announced to come off at the skating rink to-morrow night under the auspices of the Golden State Band will not be postponed as was announced, but will be carried out according to the original plans. The members of the band feel somewhat indignant that anyone should start the rumor that the ball had been declared off, and say that some one connected with the dance in Pythian Hall on the same evening is responsible.

The preparations are all completed for the "Big Four" Social at Pythian Hall to-morrow evening. A good time is anticipated.

Much progress is being made in the arrangements for the building of the new Young Men's Christian Association building for the University Association, which will be known as the Stiles Hall, in honor of the generous-hearted woman who gave the funds for its construction. The following gentlemen have been selected for a supervising committee: Professor Kellogg, Professor Bacon, Rev. G. A. Easton, Oscar Dornin, Charles K. Clark, Anson Blake and Charles Bentley. Clinton Day is the architect.

Jack Mayer left yesterday for his home at Dalles, Oregon, where he will spend the vacation.

G. A. Loughlin has gone to Mark West, Sonoma county, for a business trip. He will return next week.

S. V. Nichols, who is superintending the construction of the new Stewart & Trowbridge block, corner of Shattuck avenue and Dwight way, yesterday said he was certain all work on the building would be completed by January 1st, and that the stores and offices would be ready for their occupants at that time. The stores thus far rented will be occupied as follows: Joseph Mason, real estate; J. A. Coleman, druggist; M. C. Hamlin, dry goods, and M. C. Schmidt, hardware. The other stores will be occupied when finished by a bakery and restaurant and by a notion and variety store.

A very entertaining and instructive meeting of the Longfellow Memorial Association was held last evening at the parlors of the Berkeley Gymnasium. A large attendance was present and the deepest interest was manifested in the discussion, which was on the paper on "The Sonnet," written by Dr. E. R. Taylor. Excellent music enlivened the discussion and was well received. Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Pierce and Miss Davis were those favoring the association with songs and instrumental selections. The society has evidently taken a new lease on life and never was in a more prosperous condition than at present. The drinking together of students and townspeople in these gatherings for the discussion of subjects of literature and art is expected to relax the strained feelings which have existed between them.

Arthur Wooster, whose absence from home was mentioned in THE TRIBUNE last week is still among the missing. His parents cannot account for his absence and fear he may have been carried off to sea in some outgoing vessel. He was last seen in San Francisco two days after he left home, since which time all traces of him have been lost. Wooster was for some time a messenger in the Western Union office of this place and was very well liked by his employers. His parents are at a loss to explain their son's strange action as he had no reason for leaving home and was always apparently contented with his lot.

Carney & Baum are building a $2000 cottage for C. A. Briggs of San Francisco on Blake street, near Shattuck avenue.

The second night of the High school entertainment was even a greater success than the first. Odd Fellows' Hall was again packed to overflowing with the patrons and friends of the institution. A very nice amount has been raised for the benefit of the library and reading room of the school. The entertainment has been so successful and so many persons have not attended for fear of being turned away on account of the smallness of the hall that the entire programme will be repeated again this evening. The floor was cleared last night after the programme was completed and the young people danced until nearly 2 o'clock this morning. The cast of the principal characters in the tableaux is as follows: "King James," Mr. Rierulff; "Roderick Dhu," Walter Powell; "Malcom Graeme," Allen Smith; "Allan Bane," Weston Clark; "Brean, the priest," Edward Little; "Douglas," Herbert McIntosh; "Ellen," Miss Gussie Nye; "Margaret," Miss Ruth Rising; "Blanche of Devon," Miss Annie Lamstrom. During the tableaux Miss Ada Ramsdell sang "Soldiers, Rest, Thy Warfare O'er," and Miss Gompertz sang "Ave Maria."

Mrs. Chauncey Gains and family have gone to Fresno where Mr. Gains is now in business.

An elegant house is being erected on Channing way and Fremont streets for G. W. C. Schmitze of San Francisco, the inventor of the patent filer or "pigeon holes" now being placed in the San Francisco City Hall.

The University and the public schools close this evening for the Christmas vacation and will not open again until Monday, January 4th.

Last Friday evening's TRIBUNE contained a statement that the passengers on the electric road were compelled to stand in the mud while waiting for cars at the car house. The next day a force of men laid a substantial board platform at the place mentioned and a board walk leading therefrom to the office. The improvement is greatly appreciated by the public and the attention paid to their wants by the company has won hearty approval. The people would like, however, to have some kind of a waiting room provided for their use when they are compelled to change cars at the power house. No such accommodation exists now and on rainy days it is very unpleasant to have to stand in the cold rain. The employes of the company do all in their power to make matters as comfortable as possible and take waiting passengers into the receiver's office or the carpenter shop while they await the next car. The appreciation already shown by the company of the public sentiment leads its patrons to hope for a convenient waiting place in the near future.

Another postoffice joke was played on Editor McCarthy yesterday. He received a telegram signed by J. Wannamaker stating he had received the appointment as postmaster. The joke was soon out, however, and no lives were lost.

Mabe Jones who failed in his venture with the Bourdon restaurant says he has not skipped out in order to defraud his creditors. He has simply moved his household goods to Temescal where he has a nice little home, and there he will stay in easy access to all who have any claims against him. A grocer was going to attach the place he says, so he closed up and will go through insolvency. R. M. Fitzgerald will act as his attorney.

EAST OAKLAND.

Organization of a Naval Brigade Among the Boys.

Unsatisfactory Condition of East Fourteenth Street and Thirteenth Avenue.

EAST OAKLAND, December 18.—The road to San Leandro is in a disgraceful condition, and travelers all say it should be repaired at once. It is full of ruts and mud, and in some places is almost impassable. Driving is not only disagreeable, but dangerous. Thirteenth avenue is also in a very bad condition. At best the crosswalks are broken and badly worn out, but at present it is impossible to cross any street without sinking up to the ankles in mud.

Zoey House, a driver on the Twelfth-street car line, picked up a purse containing $440 on the floor of his car yesterday. He was just congratulating himself on his find when two ladies appeared on the scene and demanded it. Of course the purse was returned, and House says he received nothing for his honesty but "Thank you." The owner of the purse resides on Jackson street.

Interesting closing exercises were held at California College last night. A fine literary and musical programme was presented.

David Van Amringe of 1730 Ninth avenue has recovered from concussion of the brain, resulting from a fall.

Mr. Daggett is ill with the grip at his home. Mr. Rietz the shoe dealer is also suffering with the disease.

The festival and bazar being held at the Centennial Presbyterian Church has proved a great success. The entertainment closes tonight.

The Alert Athletic Club meets for the first regular drill under the new name in the old Swett Hall, East Oakland, Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The hall has been thoroughly renovated with new flooring, dressing-rooms, windmill and fresh paint. The stairs, which formerly ran through the lower hall, have been placed outside and connect directly with the upper floor, the whole of which is rented by the club for Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, the last Monday in each month being observed as visitors' night.

The Boys' Brigade of the Church of the Advent, East Oakland, will hold their first drill next Tuesday evening. The brigade will don the naval uniform and receive instructions in the new infantry tactics, cavalry, sword exercise, cutlass exercise, rowing and sailing. They hope sometime in the near future to own a boat. Rev. D. Lathrop and Mr. McGower have been mainly instrumental in organizing the brigade. Edgar Pomeroy will be the instructor and promotion will be by merit.

The wedding of W. F. Dingley and Miss Charlotte Gardner, daughter of General Gardner of Eleventh avenue took place last evening.

An electric light has been placed on Twelfth avenue and Fifteenth street near the Presbyterian Church.

PIEDMONT.

PIEDMONT, December 17.—The work of building the new electric road is progressing rapidly. A large force of men are at work on Booth street cutting down the grade.

Large numbers of larks fly about this section. Hunters reap a big harvest nearly every Sunday.

Miss Wood of Vernon Heights is recovering from the grip.

The new school building is rapidly being put up. It will be completed by February.

The petition asking that Mrs. French, the present principal of the Piedmont school, be retained, is still being circulated.

VENGEANCE IS COMING.

Mr. McKenzie Will Be Sorry He Did Not Get a License.

Thomas McKenzie was formerly proprietor of the New York Livery Stable, situated at Eighth and Webster streets. He had no license, and when Inspector Cornor went around to notify him that he must obtain one he promised to do so at once. He kept putting off this duty from day to day, however, and finally sold out his stable without complying with the law.

Now that Mr. Cornor has discovered how he was fooled he has decided to have a little legal revenge on McKenzie and a warrant was this morning issued for that individual's arrest. He is charged with violating an ordinance in not having obtained the license.

CROPPER SKIPPED.

He Was Tired of Married Life, So He Quietly Sneaked Away.

Adelaide A. Cropper is tired of being a wife in name only, so today she commenced a suit to secure a divorce from William L. Cropper on the grounds of desertion and failure to provide. She alleges that five years ago the husband left his home and refused to join his wife again. He also refused to support her, telling her that if she wanted anything to eat she could go out and earn it. Then he quietly left the city, and his wife has not heard from him since. There are no children and no community property involved in the suit.

Why, Mr. Kelley!

William James Kelley of Placerville secured a license yesterday afternoon to marry Delia Crosby of San Francisco. He wanted the clerk to date the license back a few months, but Mr. Crane told him they didn't do business in the clerk's office that way. So Mr. Kelley took his license as it was dated.

Hard at Work.

About twenty teams were at work this morning on the street in front of Knox Park. The street is now being graded and preparations are now being made for the bitumen. When the work is completed the street will be one of the finest in the city. A number of other important improvements will be made in the near future.

DOUBLE-BREASTED SACK SUITS.
Everybody wears a Double-breasted Sack Suit now-a-days. We were equal to the emergency, and manufactured a great stock of these goods. We've got 'em in endless varieties in all the latest colorings.
BROWN IS THE WINNER for popularity. Twelve different shades of wood—Browns, Tans, Tobaccos, Nut, Hazel, Havana, Chestnut, Oak, etc. These goods come in Cheviots. We've also got Black and Blue Cheviots. We haven't exactly got a corner on these goods, but our stock is the largest of any house in the West.
